ANAN BEARS

World Class Bear viewing at the Anan Wildlife Observatory

Spend the day at one of the few places in Alaska where you can watch and photograph both Brown and Black bears in their natural habitat. Venture down to the photo blind and experience bears catching salmon right in front of you!

Limited entry permit required
Book Early!

Anan Wildlife Observatory is located in Southeastern Alaska's Inside Passage. A world renowned sanctuary for bears, eagles and seals gathering to feed on one of the regions largest salmon runs. This is a unique opportunity to get an up close view of some of the most sought after species in their wilderness setting.....truly spectacular!!

You have a highly trained naturalist guide dedicated especially to you for the day. This excursion takes a full day, but you can be back in the comfort of your hotel or lodge by evening. A scenic one hour boat ride puts you at the trailhead for a leisurely 1/2 mile walk to the observation deck. Begin your day in the forest above the waterfalls teaming with salmon. Countless photographic opportunities surround you. Immerse yourself in the unsurpassed bear viewing that encompasses the observation deck. Take your turn in the photo blind for that exceptional once in a lifetime photograph of bears in action.
